his horses and drove rapidly away, making his escape.

Grupp had just left his wagon and started after the dog, which was without either collar or license, when a man in a wagon which the dog was following told the dog-catcher to "watch out." Grupp paid no attention and in another instant the man shot. The bullet struck Grupp in the leg about six inches above the knee, infloting a wound which is said to be serious. Grupp dropped in the street, and the man drove south on Texas avenue.

Theodore Rodermann of No. 221 South Third street and George Lauth of No. 1829 South Ninth street, who witnessed the shooting, say they can identify the man in the wagon. Grupp was taken to the South Gide Dispensary, where his wound was dressed by Doctor Eyerman. Afterwards he was taken to his home, at No. 203 Trudeau street.

WILL ENFORCE THE CURTIS LAW.

Judge Thomas's Decision That It Is Unconstitutional Will Be Ignored.

NO COMPLAINTS ARE RECEIVED.

Interior Department Believes That Nothing Better Can Be Done Until the Indian Treaties Are Ratified.

Washington, June 25 .- Judge Vandeventer, Assistant Attorney General for the Interior Department, said to-day that the provisions of the Curtis law will be enforced in Indian Territory, regardless of the opinion of Judge Thomas of the United States Court for that Territory that this law is unconstituilonal. The department believes that the Court of Appeals for the Territory will revalid.

Judge Vandeventer said that the department is not receiving complaints in regard to the enforcement of the law. It has been In operation since June 28, 1898, and the department believes that its provisions are just, equitable and as good as can be had pending ratification of the Creek and Chero-kee agreements. When Congress meets again it is expected that these two treaties will be ratified, and then land tenures and oil and mineral leases will be put upon a stable and more satisfactory basis. Maryville, Mo., June 25.-S. B. Rathbone, special rural mail delivery agent of the Post Office Department of Missouri, was in Maryville to-day and established the fourth rural delivery route out of Maryville. He said this county has more rural routes than any other county in the State. There are seven more applications for routes in the county, but Mr. Rathbone said they would not be established at present. The department, he said, is going to make this a test rural delivery county. All but three or four of the principal post offices in the county will be closed and movable post offices will go out on every main road daily. All persons will have their mail delivered at their doors daily. This movable post office will sell stamps and all other postal supplies. Nodaway County has been chosen, Mr. Rathbone said on account of the interest the people here have shown in the rurul delivery by sending in large petitions for rural delivery at different paris in the county. #### TWO SUITS OVER ONE NOTE. Court Allows Claim, but Damage Action Is Pending.

The Clayton Probate Court yesterday al lowed the claim of H. R. Zadow of St. Louis on a note of $33 against the estate of Mrs. Caroline Neubauer, who lived at Luxembourg, St. Louis County. This note has been the occasion of two suits. It was first held by W. C. Neubauer, son of Caroline Neubauer. He sold the note to Zalow. When the latter's claim was first presented in the Product Court, William Neubauer's sisters, and other heirs to the estate of Caroline Neubauer, appeared in court and averred that, in their belief, the note was a forgery and should not be allowed. The matter was argued and the Probate decided in favor of Zadow.

Meantime when the sisters had alleged forgery, William C. Neubauer brought suit against them for damages. This suit is still pending in the Circuit Court. on a note of $583 against the estate of Mrs.

C. McClelland appeared for the same district and urged the same thing.

A committee appeared from the city of Memphis, composed of D. P. Hadden, ex-Mayor; Judge J. T. Latham and Judge Skene. They asked for further improvements of the harbor of Memphis.

Another committee from Memphis pleaded for the Wolf River District. It was headed by J. G. Henning.

At 1 o'clock the commission took a recess. On reconvening, the special committee from the city of Memphis was heard. It was stated by the spokesman that Hopefield Point, formerly a large cape jutting into the river about 3,000 feet opposite Memphis, had disappeared and that a big sand bar had appeared opposite and just in front of the city of Memphis, extending about 1,500 feet out into the river and being about 1,500 feet in width. It made it impossible for bonts to land at the wharves at that place.

The commission wished money to build what is called a revetment outside the sand har, so that wharves could be built over the filled-in ground between the revetment and the main land. A quarter of a million dollars was needed for this revetment, for another outside Old Hopefiel Point and for keeping the revetment in repair.

The commission decided to give half the amount asked for.

There was a meeting of engineers in the afternoon to discuss plans and an adjournment was taken until to-morrow.

Owing to the failure of Congress to pass the River and Harbor bill at its last session the amount asked for by the Memphis Commission cannot be approved, the commission the appropriation for the improvement of the Mississippi River.

Men Doing Business in Union Market Meet To-Day. At a meeting called for 2 o'clock this afternoon, the men who have places of business in Union Market will protest against the proposed sale of the property by the city. It is presumed that resolutions against the sale will be adopted and forwarded to the House of Delegates.

WILL OPPOSE THE SALE.

The reason assigned by the marketmen for their opposition to the sale is, that the price offered, $735,690, is too low. According to estimates made by some of them, the property should bring not less than $1,300,600. This estimate is made on the basis of $2,500 a front foot, which they contend is not too high.

Another reason for the protest is that the merchants, butchers, and others, who have done business in the market for years do not wish to be forced to move or quit business. against the proposed sale of the property do not wish to be forced to move or quit business.

"Few of us have made enough money to retire on," said Tom Maloney, the restaurant keeper, to a Republic reporter, "and moves are uncertain at best. Take me, for example. I have been at work in the market for forty years, and cannot think of quitting. The little furniture and fittings you see, together with the good will of the former proprietor, cost me more than $5.000.

"If I were forced to vacate, the furniture would bring me next to nothing and the good will would evaporate into thin air. There are a lot of other men who have been raised under this old roof, and who do not want to be driven out of business.

who do not want to be driven out or business.

"I do not know what we can do to stop the sale. Nothing, I suppose, but we will make an effort at it, anyway. I believe I can show the House of Delegates (iff they want to see) that the price offered for the block is not as much as it should bring.
